Interested in being a partner agency/training site?

Training sites are host community service agencies. Mature workers do much of their training through meaningful positions with host community service agencies. These nonprofit and government service agencies are dedicated to providing training to build real work skills while the work provided by the participants directly benefits the community.

Interested in hiring a mature worker?

Our participants train in a wide variety of job skills that include every aspect of office support as well as areas that might surprise you. If you are interested in hiring a participant, contact Meritan to see if we have trained workers that will meet your needs.

Benefits for employers include:

- Nonprofit employers: Train to hire participants for extended periods
- Hire prescreened, trained and job-ready workers with demonstrated real-world proficiencies
- Dependable, responsible, adaptable, and competent new hires.
